JUNIATA COLLEGE

HUNTINGDON, PENNSYLVANIA

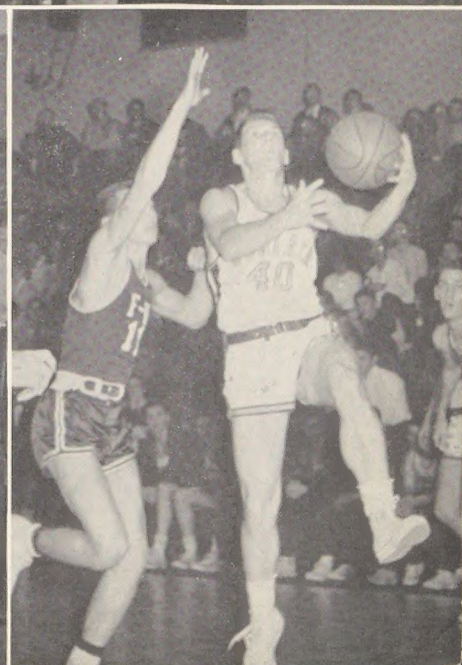

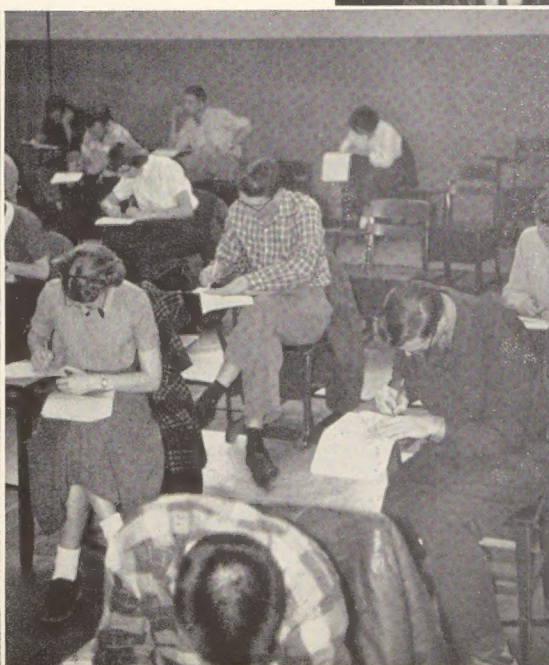

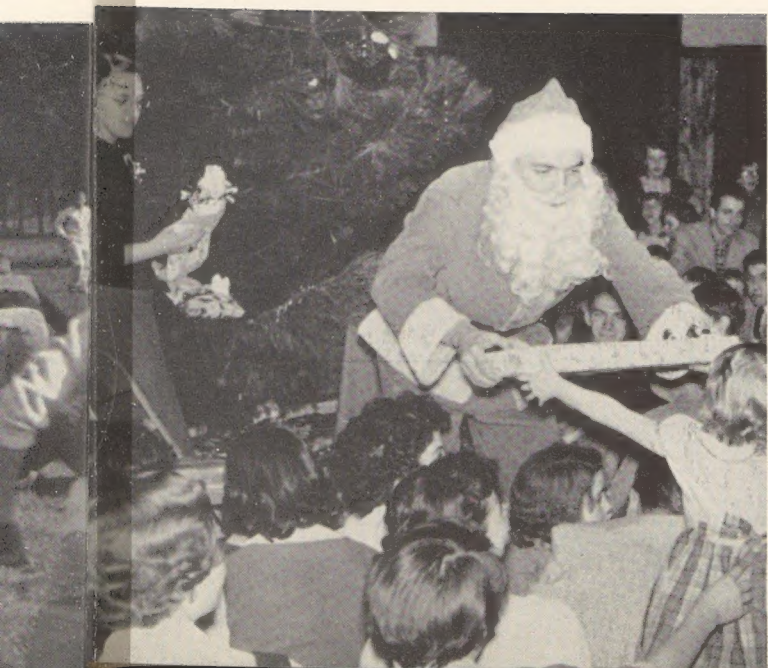

Theme writers, Inc.

Rack up two!

Christmas

Oh, woe — finals!

Foreword:

I am the class of 1955. Juniata has been my home these past four years . . . four years crowded with living memories.

. . . of lectures which fulfilled a desire for a broader appreciation of the riches of our culture.

. . . of classes and professors who became the springboard from which my curiosity leaped into wider explorations.

. . . of group cooperation achieved by faculty, students, and administration working together.

. . . of friendships enriched by the spirit of Juniata.

. . . of familiar landscapes and old traditions.

. . . of football games, formals, concerts, and all the other things that added to my college days.

This, then, is the Alfarata . . . a memento of those four years. Within its covers only the tangible aspects may be seen; yet from them my own intangible remembrances are drawn, filled with meanings peculiarly mine, but steeped in the roots that are Juniata College.

Viewed from the side is Founders Hall in which are located administrative offices and women's dormitory. On the ground floor of Founders Hall is the Oneida Dining Hall, central eating place for all College students.

Beautiful sounds emanate from these many windows, for this is Swigart Hall, home of Juniata's musicians. It contains classrooms, practice rooms, and, of course, a wide variety of musical instruments.

Students' Hall — a citadel of culture. From its twelve classrooms exit some of the world's most brilliant scholars. This is the home of Division I and Division II.

Science Hall — Weird odors, explosions, industrious students, and lights burning at 4:00 a.m. pretty well characterize this campus building. Division III students, the Juniata geni, live here.

On the left is the Memorial Gymnasium, a huge modern structure which houses the men's physical education facilities. Its large, brilliantly lit gym floor is also used for home basketball games.

On the right is the Women's Gym. In addition to being the center of girls' physical education, the main floor is often used for dancing and other social events, and the basement has been transformed into a student center, Totem Inn.

And here we see the familiar arch of the Cloisters, long time residence of Juniata men, which this year gives way to "The New Dorm." Formerly used exclusively as an upperclass residence, it will now house freshmen, in addition to upperclassmen who wish to remain there.

One of Juniata's most picturesque sights is Oller Hall, with its stately pillars, viewed through the beautiful trees which surround the structure. Oller Hall, one of the newer buildings on campus, is used for chapel services, community concerts, and college entertainment productions.

The building pictured here bore the brunt of campus jokes for the past several years; it is Sherwood Lodge. The Lodge was vacated at mid-semester, as freshmen moved into the Cloisters and the New Dorm. However, it will long be remembered by former residents for its match-box rooms, leaky roofs, and cardboard walls.

This $425,000 structure, the first on Juniata's 10-year building program, is the new modern men's dormitory. Housing 130 resident men, the dorm, is located on the hillside overlooking the northeast campus beyond Oller Hall and the Cloisters. The dormitory is up to the minute, containing ultra-modern furnishings and an attractive lounge.

The ivy-covered Stone Church of the Brethren, located on the College campus is a symbol of the spirit of brotherhood and peaceful communion with God which prevails at Juniata. Here many students come to worship and to participate in special services throughout the year.

This is Carnegie Library. Its shelves contain approximately 63,000 books, all of which are available to the faculty and student body seven days a week. A scholarly, academic atmosphere ever prevails in this popular building.

This is the bell tower entrance to Founders Hall, home of Juniata coeds, administrative offices, and the College Dining Hall.

DR. CALVERT N. ELLIS

Most of us dream of traveling to far away places, of seeing startling sights and eating exotic foods. For many of us these dreams will become reality. Our generation will see more of this planet than any previous generation. We know about distant places and more of us have been there—than any group of students before us.

However, there are various ways of traveling! Some persons have physically stood in Athens; others have studied the Greek contribution to western civilization, while still others have traced an Ionic column.

These pages will bring back memories of the travels of this college year. A few have traveled far from home and many of us have intellectually journeyed to far places where we are not yet at home. May these pages thrill us in recollection of new discoveries, new friendships and heights yet to be climbed!

Among the minor virtues perhaps the most neglected is curiosity. Yet curiosity is the virtue without which the great advances of history could not have been made. It is the virtue without which life cannot be radiant and fruitful. Life, in other words, has not only its beaten path, but also the inviting prospect of new and adventurous pathways.

Curiosity is the restless urge to know which lies at the base of all success. It can be expressed, first of all, in the desire to know facts, the true incontrovertible facts of all that impinges on the individual. Every self-respecting student should want to have the facts which the past has transmitted to him, as well as the facts of the present which affect his welfare.

But curiosity should also operate at a higher level. The really important questions of life are questions for which there are no ready-made, precise, unalterable answers, which can be communicated verbally to all inquirers alike. Does life have any abiding significance, or is it like the tale of an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing? What is the supreme reality, and how shall we describe it? Each of us must allow this kind of curiosity to break into our thinking, if we would grasp the significance of the life that has been given to us.

Curiosity is not a gift; it is a virtue. Therefore, it can be developed and cultivated. Juniata covets for each of its students the kind of curiosity which will make the present and the future rewarding.

ALICE B. DOVE

A contemporary educator recently said: "We, who now know that we live on borrowed time in the Hydrogen Age, must put aside trivial matters and deal with basic issues in this hour in which atomic power, without moral control, promises to give humanity back to the dust." He proceeds, in more hopeful vein, to show how the educated, well-integrated man, with his intellectual freedom, plus a basic integrity, can play a major role in building securely for a new world.

We, with him, believe that the answer to that fatalistic attitude lies largely in the hands of the younger generation which every June pours from the doors of our colleges and universities. One of the aims of your college education has been to start you on that path to intellectual freedom, to begin the process of integration which will make you a part of that powerful human machine which can make or break the World of Tomorrow. In your footsteps the children of the future will walk!

DR. JAMES F. PENNEY

Recently there came across my desk a fascinating study entitled "Self-Actualizing People." For the author, the self-actualizing person is one characterized by qualities of spontaneity (his actions marked by simplicity, naturalness and lack of straining for effect), acceptance of reality (about himself, others, and the world), detachment (in the sense of remaining calm, serene, unruffled amidst the turmoil of life), autonomy (depending on inner resources rather than on extrinsic factors for satisfaction and growth), creativity (not the "genius" type of creativity but rather a lack of depressing inhibition and restriction in the approach to life), and a "continued freshness of appreciation" of the basic goods of life.

These qualities are among those which we hope will be the outcomes of education, over and beyond the acquisition of knowledge. They are the qualities of free men, the essentials of character and personality, the roots of faith. The "self-actualizing person" in one who truly uses the tools which education offers. It is our hope that the experiences provided at Juniata will have contributed to your on-going development in the direction of "self-actualization."

Destination: Graduation
Departure: September, 1951
Arrival: June 6, 1955

... so read the passports of the passengers of the Senior Class who are pictured on the following pages. We report that it has been a pleasant trip, marked by a series of exciting events. Many of our initial traveling companions decided to take a different route and left us at intersections along the road, but 93 of those who bought tickets that early day in September, 1951, are ready to disembark. This journey is completed and now we are preparing for another, this time a solo flight.

You ask about our trip? We have learned a lot; our lives have been changed and enriched; and it has been a memorable experience. Our itinerary was full, and the busy schedule kept us constantly on the go. As freshmen, we reluctantly wore our "regulations," preceded upperclassmen, went to court, scoffed at the diagonal prohibition, went to court, and regained our class spirit and pride by surviving initiation and beating the sophomores in tug-o-war and football on Homecoming. We took the campus by storm, and confidently and happily did Allegra accept the cup for our first All-Class Night skit, "Honeymoon, U. S. A."

The scenery along the way was breath taking, and we saw an ugly, unused gym basement transformed into a beautiful, popular recreation center. For this idea much credit is given to several outstanding members of the Class of '55. Sue, Rem, and Allegra were on the Totem Inn Planning Committee under the capable leadership of Russ, whose zeal and enthusiasm made his dream a reality.

As sophomores we had to readjust ourselves again to college life for we were no longer the lowest of the low. Initiation from the other end of the stick (literally), tying our contests on Homecoming Day, decorating the Social Rooms for Christmas, struggling through exams, and tiring ourselves willingly for Totem (remember Rainy on that hydraulic pump?) were sophomore highlights. We were glad for the summer months to re-fuel, rest, and relax!

The honor of our class as Juniors was upheld by Jeanie in the play; Russ and Joe on the Senate; John, Dick, Joy, Peg, Lee, and Scott in the Honor Society; Janet as Alfa-rata Editor; Pat as All-Class Night director, and the kids in the choir. We participated in intramurals, went to Community Concerts, studied, danced, broke the record for good Junior-Senior Receptions, we still got excited as vacations drew near, and we even got a little vicarious scare when comps were mentioned.

And now, this is it—the end of the Juniata trip. The last lap was great, too. Doris was Homecoming Queen; Sev, Joe, and Fran lived through their second undefeated football season; Chucker, O.B., and Shamus ran their legs off for basketball; and Sue and George completely revolutionized the yearbook industry. Dick and the seven Senior Senators did a good job of engineering this chartered trip, and here we are!

Last stop—graduation. End of the line. This way out, please.

Taking the College by storm, we moved in bag and baggage on a September afternoon in 1952. Like the man who came to dinner, we've stayed on for three years, lending our time and talents to enriching and enlivening campus life.

Starting the year with a bang, we walked off with the All-Class Night trophy, as the gay, rollocking troupe of entertainers put on a musical, featuring a wild charleston by one Jane Summy, that captured the votes of the judges and left the three other classes agape.

Another highlight of that first year was the debut of many frosh athletes, who were soon to become the stars of the Juniata gridiron and court. Little did we realize, then, that one day Tarq would be All-State quarterback or that Jake would carry on with his high school habit of "swishing them in," to become one of the scoring leaders in small college basketball circles. And spring sports saw Pheas running away with diamond honors.

The freshman dance with that catchy baseball theme, Nancy and Maggie representing us on May Queen Jan Wenger's court, and with the pressure of final exams, integration courses and follow-ups, over with and first year adjustment problems settled, we took off for an exciting summer of sun and fun.

Rolling in on the 8:03, three months later, we took up where we had left off. Hazing the green frosh, paddling them at initiation and watching them squirm as Kass Runner called on them for freshman court were favorite early-in-the-year activities.

On the side, too, our sophomore football fellas, forming the nucleus of the varsity team, contributed to J.C.'s first undefeated season. All-Class Night, decorating Founders Porch (remember President Yates on the roof?) reading the Juniatian, with sophs Editor Hunt and Managing Editor Skinner heading the staff, attending that extra special Valentine Dance, product of Fred's genius, going to basketball games to watch Walt, Lee, Jake, and Howie spark the courtmen on to a sensational season (how about that L.V. game?) and spirited Bernie put up a good fight when the chips were down, then Senate elections and four Class of '56ers — Nan, Jim, Dan, and Bill were soon to be "junior senators," Pheas again winning the batting crown, and this year it was soph lovelies Nancy Freed and Maggie who entered the May Day arbor, Gee we had a busy year, didn't we?

And here we are—juniors! It was kinda' hard to believe, registering for the fifth semester, that half our College life was over. But we've successfully weathered the third year of what appeared to be a long journey, and as always, the juniors have been out there giving it the "old 1-2."

Kass and her "cool Homecoming attendants, two pint-sized pigeons, Sylvia and Nancy, Christmas decorations in the Tote, the '56 sportsmen "coming through," to the tune of a second undefeated football season and the scrappy basketball team—what more could we do?

Check your safety belts, mates, the landing's not too far off.

Having completely unpacked our suitcases after a year's stay at Juniata, we sophomores settled back last September for a long three winter's nap. The excitement of getting moved in had passed, and the excitement of getting ready to leave was a long way off.

Thus far we've had a pleasant and profitable sojourn. Not long after surviving the initiation paddles we plunged into the project of All-Class Night, the result being quite successful. "Your Old Man's a Monkey" provided many laughs for the audience (remember Jim Stayer's yelling from the balcony?), and came in second in the judges' voting.

The silver bell used over the front steps in the '53 Christmas decorations was a product of frosh ingenuity, too. The bell was quite unique, as it appeared to be suspended in mid air. Just a few months later was the production of Skin of Our Teeth, with two frosh thespians appearing in two out of the three leading roles. Leprechauns provided the theme for the frost party, held in honor of St. Patrick's Day.

And finally it was unbelievably near the end of our first year. Finals, themes, health class, themes, integration courses, themes, follow-up courses, themes, regulations, themes, health class, themes, English Conference, themes, freshman assembly, themes, and oh, yes—themes were over with, and once again we were normal human beings.

Our sophomore year started out in a hustle of activities—the radio station, with a majority of the staff being 57'ers, went into operation, there were freshmen to haze, and above all, we had to maintain the scholastic honor of the class.

A precedent was established in initiation, which we hope will be carried on—initiation was sensible, sane, and constructive. Great fun was had without the use of paddles and goo. Christmas decoration time rolled around again and this time we pulled our bell out of mothballs and hung it over Founders' steps.

Then that thorn in the side, finals, loomed large. Our class emerged with quite a good showing, however, as the Dean's List was predominated by sophs. Spring semester activities, the play, All-Class Night consumed much of our time in early Spring. And Senate elections, with a number of sophomore candidates in the race, monopolized attention during early March.

Before we knew it, Easter and Spring Vacation, May Day had come and gone and here we are, halfway through our College education. We've successfully weathered the storms of the first two years; here's hoping the last two prove to be just as "smooth sailing."

It was on September 12 that members of the freshman class arrived at the terminal eager to begin their journey into higher education. Unusual feeling prevailed inside each of us that Sunday afternoon—a feeling of encountering a new experience.

We spent the day wandering about the campus and meeting those who in a few days would become our best friends. That evening President Ellis welcomed us and introduced us to the JC Alma Mater. How different it seemed from the words we had previously seen in our Scouts.

And then came Orientation—three days packed with fun and excitement in which we learned so much about the College and some of the upperclassmen. Doorstep News helped us to become acquainted with our classmates, but at the same time it warned us of regulations which would come almost immediately.

It's hard to explain the feeling a "frosh," (as we were being called), has the morning of the first day of regulations. We had heard some pretty frightening things about hazings, unkind sophomores, and the like. Dressed in our dinks, name cards, and bow ties or blue and gold socks, as the case may be, and pressing our Scouts close to our hearts, we hesitatingly stepped outside, expecting to encounter a soph wielding a club at any time. However, this just didn't happen. The "sneaky sophomores" were amiable and interested in helping us.

That first Court Night had us all worried. Had someone seen me go down to the laundry without my dink? Would that sophomore who caught me without my bow tie turn me in? Just what was Court like anyway? The sophs are tightlipped individuals. They wouldn't tell us anything.

But the Court made its mark. The next morning freshmen emerged carrying fishing poles, bells, brooms, waste-paper cans, and anything else the sophs could imagine.

By this time classes had begun and we got a taste of the integration courses and English Conference.

With Homecoming came Initiation. Friday was spent washing buses, raking leaves, and carrying people across Moore St. That evening came what we had all feared. Storming the new gym we chanted "It's great to be with '58."

I suppose we've forgiven the sophomores for failing to show up at roll call at six o'clock Saturday morning, and the traditional ceremonies at half-time of the Haverford games were really a lot of fun. With the winning of the hockey game and tug of war, we gained our freedom and shed our paraphernalia, now worn, torn, and soiled.

The major projects of the class during the year included decorating the football stadium for Homecoming and the main steps at Christmastime, co-sponsoring the Heart Hop, and presenting a skit on All-Class Night.

As the class journeys on into the future, its members look back on a year filled with pleasant memories.

The Senate

The Student Senate of Juniata College is a group of twelve leaders representing all phases of campus activity, elected by the student body to co-ordinate campus life. The Senate is a give and take organization, for it receives suggestions from the students, faculty, and administration, and in return gives suggestions and takes action to solve any problems concerning school matters.

When the 1954-55 Senate went into office, it began work immediately to establish a radio station on campus. As a result WJC is now broadcasting daily. This year special activities under Senate direction were the Red Cross Blood Drive, pep rallies, and a victory dance for our undefeated football team, among others. Some of the special problems with which the Senate worked were the possibility of new band uniforms, a student disciplinary committee, and campus identification signs.

Another phase of Senate guidance is putting into action its regular duties, which include student rule in the dormitories, the JWSF Drive, All-Class Night, sponsoring Leadership Conference, and advising club activities.

Yes, the student government works in many ways to enrich the campus life of Juniata.

The Honor Society

Each year a number of students from the senior and junior classes are selected to become members of the Junata College Honor Society. This Society aims to promote scholastic attainment among the students. While academic excellence is the foremost requirement, moral integrity and wide cultural interests are also basic considerations for election to the Society by the present members and a faculty committee, which includes the President of the College, the Dean of the College, Dr. Binkley, and Dr. Will.

In the spring of the year, an annual banquet is held, and the new members are welcomed. One senior and four juniors were chosen this year as fulfilling the necessary requisites for membership in the organization. They are: Paul Wingert, Mark Beech, James Cummins, Robert Fisher, and William Smith.

Women's House Committee

From the top floor of the girl's dorm to the NJ House, the Geiger House, Home Management House, and even to the homes of women day students who live out of town is a lot of territory to cover, but the Women's House Committee, under the direction of Mikey Mick and the guidance of Dean Dove, capably took care of all our college coeds.

The committee, which includes the respective hall presidents and vice presidents in addition to day student representatives, worked to provide the girls' dormitory and resident homes with the best possible living conditions, and participated in various activities.

Men's House Committee

Assisting in the functioning and discipline of the men's residence halls is the task of the Men's House Committee.

This committee, composed of representatives from the men's dormitories on campus, the off-campus houses, and the day students, is in charge of executing a student disciplinary program. In addition it takes care of arrangements for annual room drawings.

This was the year for the publication of the Student Directory, another project of Men's House. The directory is put out bi-annually and is sold for 25c to cover the publishing costs.

Chemistry Club

Three-necked flasks and potentiometers, 8-hydroxyquinoline and Kjeldahl digestors are familiar terms to some thirty students who comprise the Chemistry Club, a student affiliate of the American Chemical Society.

Annually the club plays host to one meeting of the Central Pennsylvania Section of the American Chemical Society. This year the lecturer was a former Juniata professor, Mr. Frank Reinhart, who is now Director of Research in Adhesion at the United State Bureau of Standards. The highlight of the year, however, comes in the spring when the club members regretfully leave their dark, dingy labs for a day in the fresh air and sunlight—a picnic is the experiment for the day.

Scalpel and Probe

The Scalpel and Probe is a club devoted to the interests of the biology and pre-medical students.

Frequently, guest speakers, such as doctors and other men interested in the field of biology, lecture the group. In October, slides of scenic areas of the United States were shown by Tom Meloy. The club is also invited at times to the Huntingdon Hospital to hear lectures which deal with current discoveries and problems that exist in the medical field.

The Scalpel and Probe each year makes a visit to a local hospital to gain practical knowledge of the medical profession. One of the highlights of this excursion is the trip to the operating room where students are given an opportunity to observe the techniques involved in surgery.

Indian Staff

Nineteen fifty-four saw an issue of the Indian appear at each of Juniata's three home football games.

This publication, put out by students, contains information on both the home and the opposing team, with the emphasis being placed on the home team. Its contents include player photographs, starting lineups, statistics, explanation of referees' signals, biographical sketches of the players, coach and tra'ner stories, recaps of previous games, a calendar of social events, feature articles, and band articles complete with pictures.

This year the Homecoming issue was the largest edition printed. It contained several pictures of the Homecoming Queen and her attendants, accompanied by an article.

The Indian is published annually during football season and appears at all home games.

Scout Staff

Every summer many scouts leave the Juniata campus in quest of prospective students. Far and near they travel—searching, searching, searching. No, they're not girl scouts or boy scouts, or even troops composed of faculty members. These scouts are small freshman handbooks, published yearly by Juniata College students.

The handbooks contain a variety of information—general regulations, sports teams, Totem Inn, a vocabulary of campus terms—the purpose of which is to familiarize the student with campus life here, to let him know what he's "in for."

The editor of the Scout is chosen each year by the Student Senate; he, in turn, picks his staff who prepare the publication during April, May, and June. It is usually completed and mailed—by the editor, who else?—sometime in July.

Frosh who have been accepted by the Admissions Office always look forward to receiving their "Scout," but after a few weeks of carrying it with them constantly (a necessity), are soon ready to "junk" it.

Camera Club

"Watch the birdie!" "Hold that pose!"

These could well be the slogans of a small but talented group of Juniata students who spend much of their time in the dark — dark room, that is — the Camera Club.

Comprised of the photography fiends around campus, this group devotes its energies to studying picture taking techniques and methods of developing films, enlarging pictures, and the like, and to gaining practical experience by taking photographs at many of the College events.

Their services to the College, especially to the campus publications, are invaluable, as most of the pictures found in the Juniata and Alfarata are provided by these campus camera bugs.

The only pre-requisites for joining the camera club are access to a camera and a willingness to work at having fun taking pictures.

Outing Club

And what is more invigorating and refreshing, or more fatiguing, than a hike, a picnic, a walk through the woods? What is more wonderful than Nature, the out-of-doors? Perhaps the Juniata College Outing Club would be willing to discuss this subject, for they are the "nature boys" and "nature girls" of the College campus.

The membership of this club has increased to over eighty in the past few years; that's four times the number of members in the club in 1953. Largely responsible for this increased membership is the huge number of freshmen who have joined the Outing Club.

During the past year the main project of the club was the repairing and completion of their cabin, located near Paradise Furnace Park. This cabin, which was erected by several members a few years ago, has been used for summer and fall overnight camping trips. However, with the aid of the College, the club is installing a fireplace, in order that the building will be usable during Winter, too.

Lectures on the out-of-doors and the showing of outdoor films highlight the bi-monthly meetings of the club.

Juniata Christian Association

In 1949 there were at Juniata six religious organizations. It was then that some far-sighted individuals began working for one united campus Christian association which would be represented on the Student Senate. Thus, the Juniata Christian Association, a part of the national Student Christian Movement and the International World Student Christian Association, was formed.

The J.C.A. meets regularly every Tuesday evening. This year the program was organized on a monthly basis around themes of general interest. Besides these regular meetings, the J.C.A. sponsors such special activities as the girls' pajama party, deputation teams, the Christmas party for underprivileged children of Huntingdon, Spiritual Emphasis Week, and the weekly President's Bible Class.

The J.C.A. Cabinet, consisting of the president, the secretary-treasurer, the publicity director, and the four commission heads, meets regularly in the Padgett home to discuss and plan how the J.C.A. can best meet the religious needs of the campus.

Ministerium

The Ministerium, in its second year on campus, has been extended to include girls who plan Christian work in the future, as well as boys who are preparing for the ministry and full-time Christian service.

The group consists of twenty-seven members this year, and is headed by Don Lowdermilk, chairman, and Mr. Padgett, faculty advisor. Sandra Johnston, Neil Albright, Jerry Richards, and Mr. Padgett comprise the program committee.

"Christian conduct on the campus" has been chosen by the Ministerium as the theme for their meetings of discussion, fellowship, and worship.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

The purpose of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is to help students maintain a close relationship with God. In order to achieve this the group sponsors Bible studies every Friday night and on Sunday night there are special Bible studies in the girls' dorm.

The group also places a strong emphasis upon missions. This year three of the members were able to attend the national I.V.C.F. missionary conference at the University of Illinois at which there were 2,000 students present from the various colleges in the United States and Canada.

The members also help to support Dr. Norton Sterrett, who is working with University students in India.

Pastels

Did you know that there is a group on campus who can leave the dorms at 9:00 p.m. and not return until 5:00 the following morning, and be totally within the college laws the entire time? Don't be alarmed—the group of six members is the Juniata College Dance Band better known as the "Pastels."

These "crazy" musicians, directed by Bill Shull, get various jobs in the towns which surround Huntingdon, a few of which are State College, Lewistown, and Mount Union.

The band includes one sax, one trumpet, and one 'bone as the solo instruments; a bass, electric guitar for special numbers, piano, and drums as background. On occasion, a guest vocalist sings with the band.

Social Committee

September! The beginning of another school year, and the social committee is already at work. Soon the frosh will be on campus and it's the committee's job to see that they're entertained.

These "social" conscious beavers have their noses to the grindstone during the entire school year. We have them to thank for our weekly after-dinner dances, our Christmas Dance, our infrequent and ancient movies, our pinochle parties, and dozens of other things that we enjoy.

Pyrenees Club

Who is it that has the most cosmopolitan, continental air on campus? Why it's the members of the Pyrenees Club, of course!

This is the club composed of students who are interested in French and Spanish. With their "parley vous"'s and "Habla Vds." 's, "oui oui" 's and "si si" 's, these linguists are far removed from the everyday "must-mumble-like-crazy-got-to-hit-that-exam" typical Juniata lingo; their foreign tongues take them off to distant and enchanting lands of mystery and intrigue.

Their more down-to-earth activities, however, include monthly meetings, at which such events as puppet shows, foreign games, films, lectures, parties, plays, and picnics are held.

Sigma Gamma

The Sigma Gamma, a vocational club, is geared toward those interested in sociology and psychology. This year provision has been made for organized buzz sessions on questions which were raised, but not answered, in psych and "sosh" classes. Work in a mental hospital, a career in governmental social service, and a survey of gerontology were topics investigated and discussed at the monthly sessions.

Lambda Gamma

It may be trite, but it's still true that no matter where you travel there's "no place like home," and there is a group of girls on campus who are learning just what it takes to make a good home: they are the members of Lambda Gamma.

Lambda Gamma, the club which is made up of students who are pursuing the Home Economics course, sponsors many activities throughout the year. The main project for the past two years has been the tailoring of the window drapes for Totem Inn.

Throughout the year the girls finance their projects by maintaining concessions and holding bake sales. At football games the members are busily dishing up hot dogs, while at the baseball contests they can be spotted at the coke and peanut counters.

Tycoon Club

A walk to 17th and Mifflin Streets and a trip up the flight of stairs leading to the second story of the I. Harvey Brumbaugh House for a monthly meeting may seem like too short a jaunt for the group of strong young Juniata men who comprise the Tycoon Club.

However, the members of this club are preparing for a much longer trip; they are the men who will go far in the business world. One day these economics and business administration majors will emerge from the I. Harvey House to become Industry's "tycoons."

The meetings of this organization are usually centered around a guest speaker from the field of business somewhere in the Central Pennsylvania area.

Juniata World Service Fund Committee

"Invest in Humanity" was the familiar phrase which captured the minds of the student body, faculty, and administration during the week of November 15. This was the time that the campus became aware of its obligation to help others who are less fortunate.

Through the Juniata World Service Fund the College was able to give support to the International Christian University in Japan, the World University Service, the Foreign Student Aid Fund which helps students on our own campus, and the missionary work of two Juniata graduates, Dr. H. S. Kulp of Africa and Dr. Paul Hoover, now serving in India.

International Relations Club

The United States is a world power and with that power comes the burden of world leadership. We are an active part in the international scene, and we must be made conscious of this fact. This is the role of the International Relations Club, to make us conscious of our world position and to inform us of our undertakings in the world of today.

An integral part of this belief are the meetings, which are based on contributions from guest speakers who are familiar with the international chain of events, and also the membership, which includes, to a large extent, the foreign students of Juniata.

The International Relations Club is affiliated with state and national organizations which also embrace the belief of making the student internationally minded; this is necessary in the completion of a liberal arts education.

One Wednesday night in January the club watched the television performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace," starring Helen Hayes. In the spring those members who had achieved the necessary qualifications became Masquers. Thus ended an eventful year of dramatics at J. C.

Masque

A taste of twentieth century witchcraft appeared on Juniata's campus in the form of this year's Masque play, John van Druten's modern comedy, "Bell, Book, and Candle."

Although the spring production was the foremost project of the Masque this year, it was by no means the only activity of our dramatics club. Every other Thursday found the club holding meetings of various types dealing with many aspects of the theater.

In the fall more than sixty students traveled to Penn State to see "Mr. Roberts."

Underclassmen Committee

A darkened room with a single candle glimmering before a green frosh—in the back of the room sit those selected to serve on the freshman court: The Underclassmen Committee.

As a court they try, judge, and counsel the violators of the freshman regulations, seeing that the rules are enforced. In addition to this most obvious function, the fourteen committee members, four senior women, three junior women, and three junior men, under the direction of the chairman, are responsible for the revision and addition of rules in the Scout.

They assist in welcoming the frosh and helping them get acquainted with campus life. Initiation activities at Homecoming are approved by the group, and they help supervise them. Aid is given in the administration of the study program. Though it functions efficiently, the identity of the members of the Underclassmen Committee is seldom realized by the freshmen.

Debate Club

"Resolved: that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the communistic government of China."

The far-off land of the Chinese and its governmental problems, in the form of the above resolution, provided the Juniata College debaters with their topic of discussion for the past year.

Both the affirmative and the negative teams participated in debates with various Pennsylvania colleges; however, the highlight of the club's activities was the two day meeting of the Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Forensic Tournament, which was held at Allegheny College.

Standing Stone Grotto

Have you ever taken a trip into a cave—explored the dark recesses of the earth? This is common practice for the members who comprise the Standing Stone Grotto.

The Standing Stone Grotto, one of the more recent organizations on College hill, was started in the spring of '54 by a small group of Juniata students and other interested persons from Huntingdon with the purpose of exploring and studying caves and their formations and environment.

The club meets twice a month to discuss experiences and discoveries of past field trips and to organize new field trips. Speakers and film strips are occasionally featured during the meetings. Also weekly trips are made to caves where rock formations, fossils, animal and plant life, and weather conditions, along with many other aspects of the caves are carefully observed and studied.

Totem Inn Committee

Totem Inn is a place for the students to congregate, watch TV, get a snack, listen to the jukebox, buy supplies, and pick up mail. Because it is primarily for the students, there is a committee which assures the student body a representative vote in the administration of the Inn. The Totem Inn committee consists of three senators and two non-senators, appointed by the Senate.

This student committee, cooperating with the administrative committee, formulates matters of general policy. It has both advisory and executive powers.

Recommendations concerning lighting, arrangement of furniture, partitioning, and maintenance of order in Totem Inn were some of the issues discussed at the committee meetings. The committee members also provided festive decorative touches on Parents' Day, Homecoming, May Day, and Commencement.

WJC Radio Staff

WJC has come a long way from that 6' x 12' cluttered cubicle in the basement of Students' Hall!

Yes, the year 1954-55 saw the coming to fruition of another student-developed project—the Juniata College radio station. Built and financed by members of the student body, WJC officially began operations September 16, 1954, a date which marked the culmination of six months of concentrated labor.

Having its inception as a mere idea germination from the minds of several interested members of the student body, with approval and encouragement from the faculty and administration, the Voice of Juniata College became a dream turned reality in the spring of 1954. Funds were solicited, blueprints drawn, and students summoned to clear, clean, and renovate a six by twelve room in the basement of Student's Hall—the present home of WJC.

Programs spotlighted college and world news, sports, and music, both classical and popular. A special feature was the tape-recording for re-broadcast the following day of away football games during the past season. With the aid of WHUN, the Huntingdon radio station, WJC broadcast the Swarthmore and Ursinus games direct from the field of play.

Since becoming an intrinsic part of Juniata student life, WJC has endeavored to serve two basic purposes: to entertain and inform members of the student body and local residents encompassed in the one mile radius of its 20-watt power, and to provide valuable training in microphone and engineering techniques to members of its 30-man staff.

WJC is operated under the control of the Student Senate, and managed by a committee composed of the Chairman of Publications, Technical Director, and Program Director.

Juniatian Staff

Behind those flashy green drapes you see covering the windows of a room in the basement of Students' Hall giant brains are at work. Here there is no time for idle chatter or slapstick comedy, for busy hands are deftly preparing a journalistic masterpiece. From Friday to Friday in that citadel of culture, these minds and bodies drive themselves on, feverishly, relentlessly, tirelessly, with one intent in mind. Their hours of diligence spell J-U-N-I-A-T-I-A-N!

Did you say you wanted to be an editor? A few months of spending every Thursday at the printers or frantically hunting for copy to fill that big hole on the front page will probably change your mind.

Veterans Club

This year witnessed the reorganization of the Veterans Club on the Juniata campus. The group, consisting mostly of Korean War veterans, numbers 23. The vets elected Sam Mollenkof as their president.

The main goals of this club are to aid incoming veteran students in adjusting to campus life, to provide for social functions for the Vets, to give the vets an additional sense of responsibility in College affairs, and to establish and maintain communication with other veterans' organizations, local, state, and national.

Any and all honorably discharged veterans enrolled at Juniata College are eligible for membership. The group meets twice monthly during the school year, presently the first and third Wednesday in the month.

Future Teachers of America

Wuxtry! Wuxtry! Read all about it! The biggest FTA in the history of Juniata has been organized this year. Students interested in subjects ranging from the three R's to solid geometry join the FTA, affiliated statewide and nationally.

Always eager to learn more about the teaching profession, this organization holds monthly meetings at which time educators discuss news and views in education, students tell about their student teaching experiences, and panels talk over various problems of the profession.

Exciting days on the 1955 FTA calendar were March 25 and 26, when after months of preparation the State FTA Convention was held on our campus; Kaydonna Bubeck, Juniata senior, presided. The theme, "The Teacher Plays His Role," was carried out with a tricky Shakespearean background. All agreed the key words of the convention were Education, Entertainment, and Inspiration!

Women's Athletic Association

They cover miles of ground in a year!

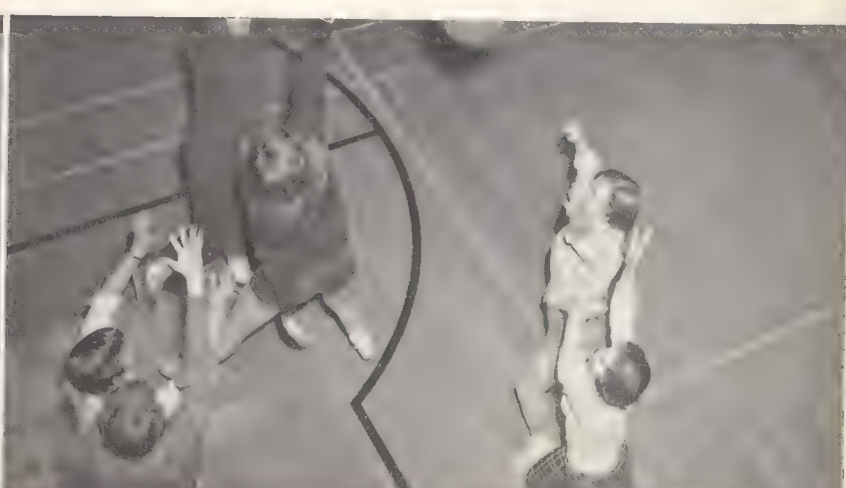

Up and down the hockey field in the autumn, from one end of the basketball floor to the other many hours each winter, and across the court in pursuit of tennis balls every spring! Who is it that has so much energy and drive? It is an ambitious group of Juniata co-eds, known as the Women's Athletic Association.

The purpose of the WAA is to provide for its members fun and exercise through friendly competition and sports participation. Intramural sports sponsored by the WAA yearly are hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball, and tennis. Most of the emphasis is placed on hockey and basketball because of the great interest the girls take in these sports.

Band

"Stand up and cheer, stand up and cheer for Juniata. . . ." Time and time again, during the past football season, the ninth annual Juniata College band led the stands in singing the victory song for our successful pigskin eleven.

The band, under the direction of Dr. Jack Brammer, and led by three pert majorettes, performs at all home games and at least one away game, this year at Lycoming.

Rehearsals for the band are held three times each week. After football season, a concert band takes the place of the marching band and performs in chapel and on May Day.

Orchestra

The instrumental genii of the campus join forces to produce another one of the College's fine musical organizations, the orchestra. The musicians are very ably directed by Dr. Jack Brammer, who joins the group as a violinist as well as handles the baton.

Open to anyone with previous music experience and meeting once a week in Swigart Hall for rehearsal, the orchestra members find pleasure in their music and also provide enjoyment for the student concert goers.

This past year the orchestra accompanied the College operetta, "Mademoiselle Modiste," and appeared in chapel on several occasions.

Touring Choir

The Juniata College Touring Choir and String-Wind Ensemble is a group, "of the rovin' kind!" Approximately one week out of the school year, the choir tours Pennsylvania, singing and playing at various churches and high schools. In September, Prof. Johnson chooses from the many anxious aspirants, the select few who will join the choir. This group of seventeen men and nineteen women works from early October to January preparing a program of sacred and secular music for the tour.

Chapel Choir

And you moan because you have only six chapel cuts a semester!

The chapel choir faithfully attends every chapel service to lead the audience in hymn-singing, and to sing the responses after the prayer and the "Amen" at the end of each service. Also, at various times throughout the year, the choral group presents a program of anthems during the chapel hour.

Highlight of the chapel choir's annual agenda, however, is the Christmas pageant.

The J Club serves as the varsity lettermen's club on College Hill. The club sponsors numerous activities in order to buy sweaters for two time letter-winners. Sale of the "Indian," home football program, booster tags, chairs at basketball games, and soft drink concession in the dorms provide for the sweaters.

Social events on the J-Club calendar are in co-operation with the WAA. Together they sponsor the Homecoming Dance, the WAA-J Club basketball game, and the WAA-J Club picnic.

Cheering the victorious football team on to an undefeated season, for the second year in succession, added even more pep and spirit to that lively bunch of coeds on campus who comprise the cheerleading squad. These vivacious lasses turned up at every game of the season, home and away, to lead the stands in fight cheers and pep songs. And at the end of the season the squad dressed up as football players to present a skit in honor of the team at an all-student victory rally.

Leadership Conference

11 a.m. . . . . Kanesatake Kids are worn out.

A sumptuous meal, then back to J. C.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." This was the password for all Jacks (and Jills!) at Leadership Conference this year.

The work consisted of many vital resolutions that were a result of long discussions. The broadcasting hours of WJC were determined; a club campaign week for new members was proposed; the frosh study hours were established; a recommendation to re-decorate Founders Chapel was sent to the administration; a majority vote showed favor for holding the operetta again this year—these and even more resolutions were made and have already been carried out.

The "play" consisted of songfests at 2 a.m.; seeing everyone bleary-eyed and frozen at 7 a.m., and laughing at the brave souls who went in for that morning dip and appeared at the breakfast tables in a lovely shade of ice blue.

Fifty JC students enjoyed themselves and yet accomplished much, which proved that work and play can mix to produce a pleasurable, yet profitable weekend.

Mountain Day

A plunge into the icy depths!

To breakfast in dungarees and sweatshirts! Why, you wonder? They never rushed to get to classes before. Perhaps the chilly air has got them, or is it something new called fall fever? No, it's neither of these; it's just Mountain Day again, spent this year at Greenwood Furnace.

Dining amidst the ants at Greenwood.

Yes, Juniata's mountain-climbing enthusiasts donned their hiking togs, grabbed their walking sticks, and "took to the hills." The traditional hike began the day's activities, giving everyone a chance to appreciate nature's beautiful autumn handiwork, not to mention the satisfying lunch that was waiting when the mountain climbers returned.

After lunch, then what? Volleyball? Baseball? Another hike? Or were you brave enough to plunge into the icy blue water for a swim? Maybe you decided a nap was what you really needed. However you spent the day at Greenwood Furnace, chances are that when you finally arrived back on the JC campus that evening, you "made like" many a weary traveler and headed for "the rack."

Homecoming Week

Yes, old grads by the hundreds flocked to the JC campus for their Alma Mater's 1954 Homecoming.

The day's festivities, ruled by Queen Doris Markey, were opened by the annual frosh-soph hockey, football, and tug-of-war contests. After some keen competition, the sophomore girls bowed to the freshmen with a 1-1 tie—which is traditionally considered in favor of the frosh. The freshmen men, however, did not do so well in football, as the sophomores tallied 14 points to their 0. The tug-of-war was waged three times before a final decision, pro-frosh, resulted. And having won two out of three contests, the Class of '58 legally ditched their regulations "for good."

Open house was held from 10:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m., and from after the game until 5:00 p.m.

The most important event of the day was the football game between Juniata and Haverford, with JC emerging victorious, 14-6. At halftime the Class of '58 performed an Indian dance in the center of the field.

The Queen's attendants, Nancy and Sylvia, lend their charm and poise to the royal Homecoming procession.

Following this, Miss Homecoming VII, Nancy McCahan, crowned senior Doris Markey, Miss Homecoming VIII. Nancy Freed and Sylvia Peterson, juniors, were her attendants.

After the game Totem Inn was a very popular place for celebrating Juniata's victory. The Totem Inn Committee took charge of decorations, which were several attractive floral arrangements and "WELCOME GRADS" spelled out in leaves on the wall.

The climax of Homecoming Day was the Homecoming Dance, co-sponsored by the J-Club and the WAA. Both students and alumni enjoyed dancing to the music provided by the Pastels.

ing Weekend

Constructiveness, not destructiveness, became the keynote for the initiation ceremonies this year. In the pre-ritual proceedings cars were washed, walks scrubbed, upperclass beds made, shoes shined, waste paper disposed of, and leaves picked up in an attempt to beautify the campus for the big weekend ahead. A tradition was broken when the annual Memorial Gym services were modified to make them more lenient and establish them as fun for all participating, including the Freshmen.

Latecomers rushed to their seats, the Oller Hall houselights were dimmed, and the audience took a vicarious trip to France, the setting of Juniata's 1954 operetta, "Mademoiselle Modiste." The College stage was transformed into a Paris hat shop for the opening act of the operetta, produced on November 12 and 13. In addition, the gala show was done in modern dress and included a chorus of French soldiers, porters, a ballerina, three models, a dog, and the hat shop girls.

Never to be forgotten were Jean Baker, as the vivacious Fifi who rose from hat shop girl to glamorous opera star; Ron Dilling as Hiram Bent, the rich American who befriended her; Barbara Maurer, his wife, who got her "culture" back in Kiakuk; John Corson, the Count who

Christmas at Juniata

Students take break for relaxation in Totem Inn Winter Wonderland.

Christmas descended upon us in a flurry of activity as the four classes vied with each other in decorating the campus to give it a holiday atmosphere. So memorable are the silver trees which the freshmen erected at the front entrance, and gaily painted scenes on the windows and the ceiling-scraping tree which the seniors used in decorating the social rooms, the huge, candle-lit wreathes added to the front porch by the sophomores, and most of all the prize winning decorations which the juniors, following the theme of "The Night Before Christmas" and featuring the juke box dressed up like a fireplace, added to Totem Inn.

To emphasize the real meaning of Christmas, the chapel choir presented the birth of Jesus in songs and pictures featuring French carols. Music, especially meaningful at this time, could be heard almost any evening as carolers got together in the social rooms, and few of us will forget the cold, rainy dawn when we visited faculty homes with our songs.

Christmas time is a time of giving, and we learned that it is really more blessed to give than to receive as we watched our adopted children enjoy themselves for the evening and saw their eyes light up as they opened their gifts at the J.C.A.'s annual party for underprivileged children.

Perhaps the most pleasurable event of J.C.'s social life is the annual Christmas banquet and dance. A turkey dinner complete with all the trimmings was followed by dancing in the Memorial Gym to the music of Nels Griffith. The most prominent decoration was a 25 foot tree trimmed with white lights, while pink lights played upon the dancers.

Yes, Christmas time is really a gay and pleasant season of the year at Juniata, and one that is likely to be long remembered.

"Bell, Book and Candle"

Witches at Juniata? Don't be ridiculous! But that was just what we had on the evenings of March 18 and 19 when the Holroyd family, Gillian, Aunt Queenie and Nicky, all possessing the powers of witchcraft, appeared on our stage in the Masque's annual production which this year was "Bell, Book and Candle," a comedy by John Van Druten.

Desperately trying to keep Shep from learning the truth about her family, she prevents a book on witchcraft written by Sidney Redlitch in collaboration with her brother Nicky, from being published. The secret is revealed, however, and Shep, learning that he fell in love with Gillian because of a spell he was under, leaves, only to return later to find that she has changed and is now really in love with him.

The play, well acted by Mary Jane Hershberger as Aunt Queenie, Judy Gearhart as Gillian, Jim Martin as Shep, Dick Backus as Nicky and Dave Amidon as Redlitch, provided an evening of comedy which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Anna Lee Over, a pretty senior miss from Roaring Spring, reigned as queen over the 1954 May Day festivities at Juniata, with Peg Brumbaugh of Chevy Chase, Maryland, attending her as maid of honor.

The theme of last year's May Day was the Mardi Gras. In keeping with this theme, the campus and club concessions were adorned in gala carnival array, and the Queen's entertainment performed for her Royal Highness under the Big Top, set in front of Oller Hall.

The visiting of campus club concessions, beginning at 1:00, proved to be very entertaining to JC students and guests. Shaving shaving cream off balloons, strength-testing, dart throwing, fortune telling, a puppet show, and a candy apple sale are just a few of the ideas that the various campus organizations conceived, planned, and executed. Many dignified professors didn't look quite so dignified with shaving cream, resulting from burst balloons, covering their usually serious countenances.

After the royal procession of our Queen, her Prince, Ron Clapper and their court of attendants, Bob Hamm, serving as master of ceremonies, introduced the day's entertainers. Performers included Doris Wilson, Mim Myers, Jo Feight, Kaydonna Bubeck, and Jim Geary, Spanish dancers; the Varsity Quartet, consisting of Ben Newcomer, "Thorny" Morrison, Wayne Ulsh, and Ken Rockwell; accordionists Norma Hottle and Skip Oesterling; a girls' trio, Bonnie Brumbaugh, Barb Grim, and Maggie Sims; and the girls from the freshman physical education classes, who presented the May Pole dance.

After the coronation, spectators migrated to the tennis courts and baseball field to witness sports events with Lycoming College. Juniata athletes emerged the victors in these contests.

A fitting finale to a delightful May Day was the Junior-Senior Reception, presided over by Queen Anna Lee. The Royals, now known as the Pastels, provided the music, and dancing lasted from 8:30 'til 11:30.

The sophomores, directed by Jackie Hayes, wrote original words and music for their skit, "Past, Present, and Future," in which they surveyed their stay at Juniata.

The Athletics

Two handsome and capable coaches, Bob Hicks and Chuck Knox "give out" with two beautiful and justifiable proud smiles.

Under the direction of Robert Hicks, first year coach on College Hill, the Indians completed their second consecutive perfect season. Eight more wins brought the Juniata streak to fifteen, longest in the state and third longest string in the nation.

Week after week, the Blue and Gold scored smashing victories by unleashing their single wing power. The opener with Moravian proved to be the nearest thing to defeat for Juniata. With four minutes left in the game, the Tribe was losing 12-7. Fran Wampler, senior wingback, returned a punt 84 yards for the winning touchdown.

Coach Hicks replaced Bill Smaltz, who left Juniata last winter to accept an assistant coaching role at North Carolina State. The new mentor found the Indian ranks depleted by graduation and call of the armed forces. But keeping the same basic offense as the Tribe previously used, he molded a team which was to sweep through eight formidable opponents.

Football

Not only did the team win honors during the season, but in the weeks following, several members won acclaim for their feats. Senior tackle Joe Veto was named to the Associated Press' first string "Little All-American" squad. Veto and junior tailback Pat Tarquinio were named to the A.P.'s first string All-State squad. Senior guard Myron Sevvick was picked on the third string All-State quad. Junior end Barry Drexler and sophomore center John Staley were given honorable mention All-State.

The Tribe opened with a thrilling comeback win at home over Moravian 14-12. In a Homecoming Day clash, they downed Haverford 14-6. In their first road test, they looked sluggish but had enough to out-class winless Lycoming 20-0. In the final home game they showed brilliant single-wing power in drubbing Dickinson 31-0, before a large Parent's Day crowd. Susquehanna fell 20-14 in their finest game of the year, the Blue and Gold over-powered Swarthmore 39-0, scoring three touchdowns in the first quarter, one on the third play of the game. Stubborn Ursinus was beaten in the fog and mud at Collegeville 28-6. Juniata scored 221 points while holding the opposition to just 50.

Juniors Barry Drexler and Keith Birmingham were the starting ends. Both were terrific on defense and "Drex" led pass receivers with 20 catches, including four touchdowns.

"Little All-American" Joe Veto and sophomore Charlie "Moon" Mullen started at tackles. Veto booted 22 extra points and two field goals.

The guards of the Tribe were particularly outstanding. Senior Myron Sevick and junior Bill Haushalter did not allow their diminutive size to be a disadvantage.

John Staley did a commendable job at center. As a line backer he left little to be desired; his play against Ursinus and Moravian being outstanding.

Junior Ron Bechtel won his first letter and did a marvelous job at blocking back.

Fran Wampler completed his fourth varsity year at wingback. He scored on several long runs, including the game winning 84 yard punt return against Moravian.

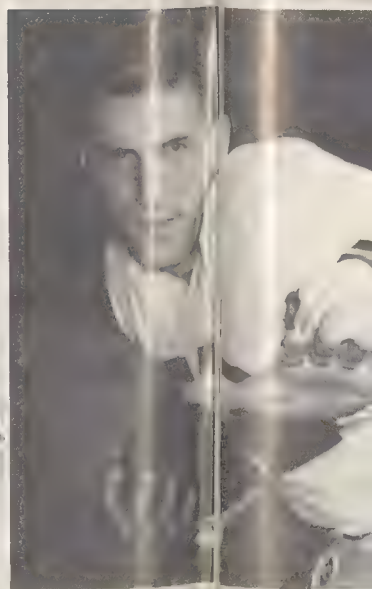

John "Weasel" Winterstein was injured through most of the year. He has been described as one of the hardest running full-backs in small college competition and proved his worth to the JC single wing many times over. Freshman Bob Sill did a great job in replacing him.

The tailback is described as the most important man in the single wing system and JC saw two great ones this year. Juniors Don Pheasant and Pat Tarquinio alternated for Coach Hicks. Tarquinio led in total offense with 947 yards and in scoring with ten touchdowns. Pheasant had 523 yards and 42 points on seven touchdowns.

Basketball mentor, "Doc" Green with team captain, Chuck Gross.

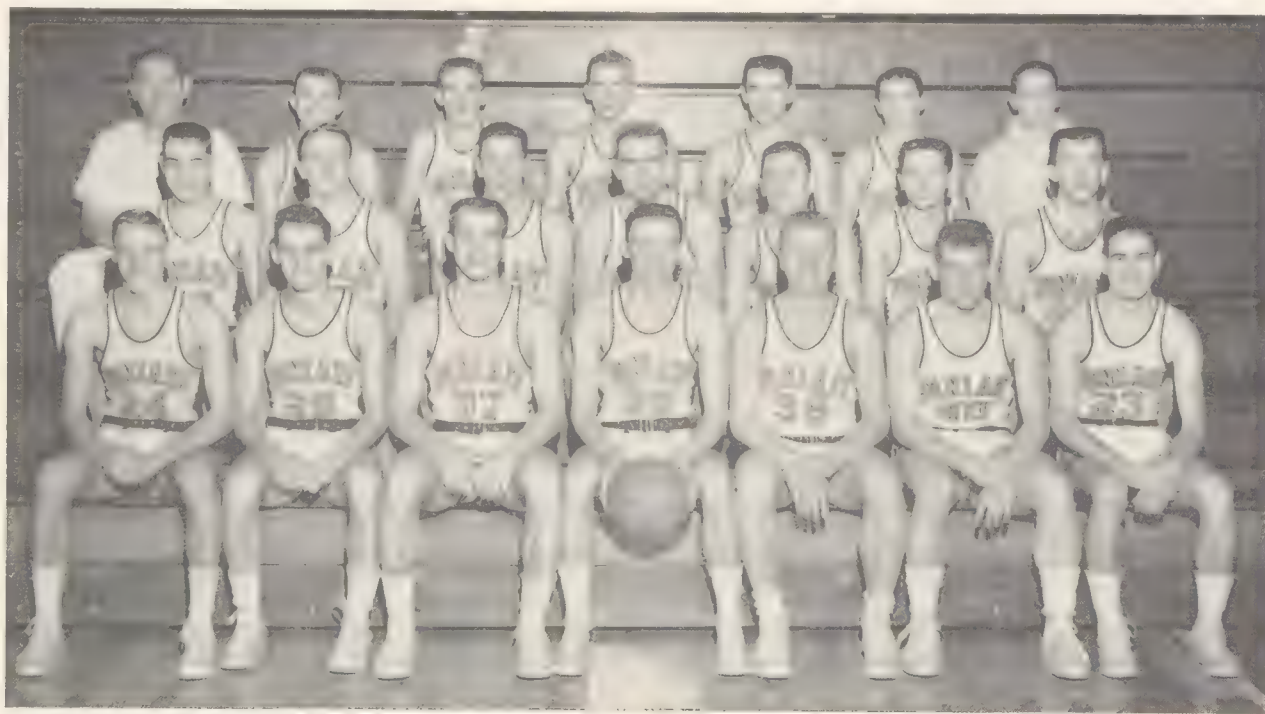

The Juniata cagers, although failing to match last year's record, managed to maintain a winning record. Failure to win on the road was the downfall of the squad as they finished with eleven wins and ten losses. An exhibition win in a March of Dimes charity game was not included in the final record.

Coach Arnold T. Greene had ten veterans back from the squad that had the most successful season in Juniata history, fifteen wins and six losses the previous campaign. The squad this year had a nine-two slate on the Memorial Gymnasium floor while winning but two of ten on the road. The team had a definite disadvantage of meeting its stronger rivals on the road this season including Geneva, Akron, Moravian, Albright, Gettysburg, and American U.

Wins were recorded over Ursinus, Lock Haven STC, Dickinson STC, Grove City, and Franklin and Marshall. Losses were at the hands of Elizabethtown (twice), Geneva, Dickinson, Akron, Moravian, Albright, American U., Westminster, and Gettysburg. The team downed Bolling AFB 65-62 in a thrilling benefit game.

The Junior Varsity under the direction of Coach Bob Hicks compiled a successful 9-3 record. The Little Indians jumped off to seven straight wins before bowing to Lycoming in a road contest. Continual switching of players between the Varsity and the JV's found Coach Hicks with juggled lineups, but the squad gave fans a glimpse of future Juniata Varsity ballplayers.

Wins were scored over Lycoming, Franklin and Marshall, Shippensburg STC, Elizabethtown, Dickinson (twice), Indiana STC, and Altoona Penn State Center (twice). The three losses were to Elizabethtown, Bucknell, and Lycoming. In a March of Dimes Charity game the squad defeated the Huntingdon City League All-Stars

Those seeing JV action included Barney McLaughlin, "Doc" Kramer, Mike Armstrong, Tony Quarantillo, Joe DeNicola, Bill Burchfield, Milan Getting, Bob Kimble, Nick Roth, Barry Drexler, Bill Hartman, and Don Pheasant. ## Baseball

The 1954 Indian baseball squad was successfully coached by Dr. T. Arnold Greene. He replaced Bill Smaltz, who left Juniata in mid-winter to become freshmen football coach at the North Carolina State. The Tribe won ten and lost four. Two defeats were at the hands of Elizabethtown both by one run. JC also lost to Susquehanna and Lock Haven STC.

Victories came over Shippensburg STC, Bucknell, Lycoming (twice), Indiana STC (twice), Susquehanna, Pitt, Lock Haven STC, and Dickinson. The overall record of 10-4 matched Smaltz's best seasons of 1952 and 1947. A nine game winning streak was the highlight of the season.

Sophomore catcher Don Pheasant won the batting title with a .385 mark. He also won the crown in 1953. Two other regulars also topped .300, Barry Dexler with .317 and Fran Zimmerman .316. Zimmerman was team captain and paced the team in runs batted in and led in extra base hits with three home runs and three doubles.

Other regulars included the pitching staff of "Lefty" Alderfer, John Criswell, Jake Handzelek, and Neil Spangler. Infielders included Jack Golden, Ken Leonard, Lee Hallman, and Bernie Oriss. The outfield was composed of Joe Hinish, and Fran Zimmerman. Reserves included Bud Douds, John Staley, Alex Hiquet, Tom McNeal, John McNeal, and Jim Geary.

Golf

The golf squad with a seven and one record continued its amazing success on College Hill. The Tribe linksmen also took first place in the Middle Atlantic Conference Championship and won the 15th annual Western Maryland Invitational.

Frank Arasin led the squad and while playing number one position, took medalist honors in both tournaments. Tom Cherok, Keith Birmingham, Phil Lankford, Bill West, Bob Fahrney, Barry Montgomery, Ted Grothe followed Arasin in that order. West remained unbeaten, although tied once, over a two year span in which he has won 14 straight.

Victories were over Albright, St. Francis, Dickinson, Johns Hopkins, Western Maryland, and Bucknell. The lone loss was to Pitt on the latter's home course in a driving rain storm. William Germann served as faculty manager in absence of Dr. Edgar Kiracofe, who resigned as coach.

Standing: P. Lankford, W. West, T. Grothe, B. Montgomery.

Tennis

In the third year of revival on the College Hill, the 1953 tennis team had the finest record of any net team. The Indians won seven while losing just once, that to powerful Penn State.

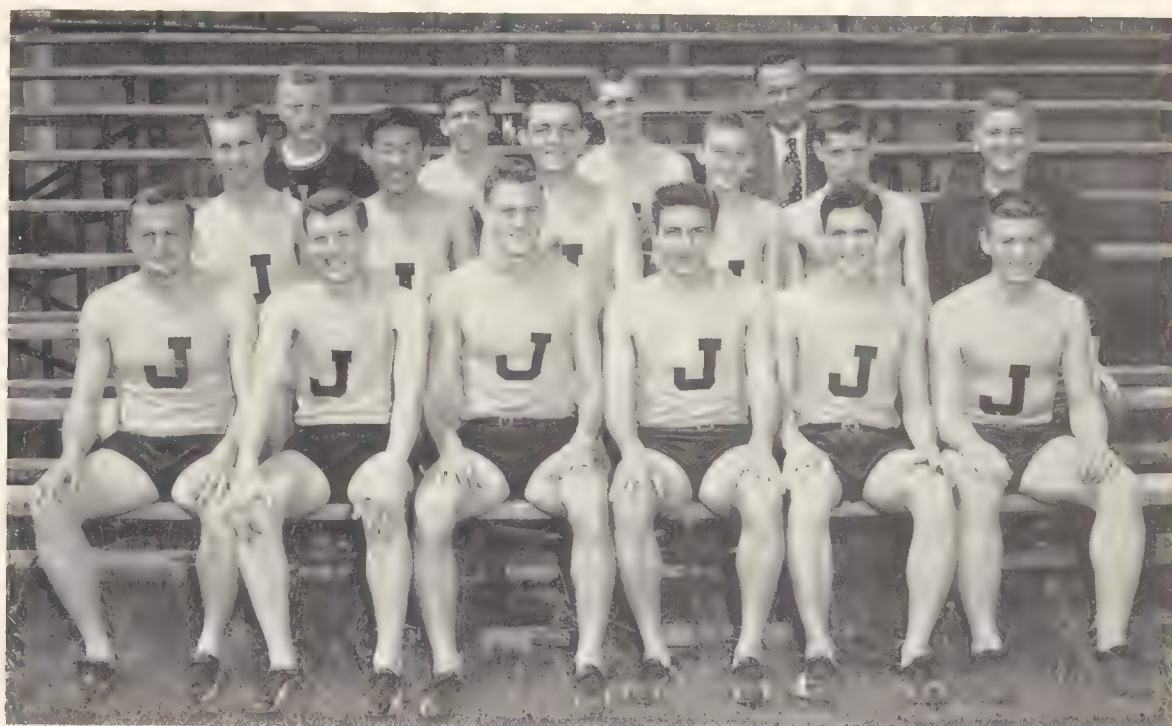

An upset win over Dickinson was the high point of the season. Other wins were over Elizabethtown (twice), Indiana STC, Lycoming (twice), and Albright. A match with Pitt was rained out.

Phil Lankford played number one man and lost but one match during the season. Dick Fusco, Dan Raffensperger, Ray Pfrogner, Chuck Gross, Don Ruhl, Dick Barefoot, John Miller, and Sam Gingrich completed the squad.

Dr. Theodore Lockwood served as tennis coach and guided the squad to win streaks of four and three. With the same schedule for this season, the team prepared for another tough card with several lettermen missing.

Track

The 1953 track squad, despite a slow start, ended strong with upset wins over Dickinson and Shippensburg STC. Losses included a dual meet with Bridgewater and triangular meets with St. Joseph's-Albright and Gettysburg-Bucknell.

The squad was paced by junior Gene Rothenberger, who scored 78 points. He won the Middle Atlantic Championship in the broad jump for the second successive year.

Coach P. M. Snyder looked for more improvement this year and has a wealth of material on hand for this campaign. Lettermen included Joe Trimber, Herb Layman, Alfred Nyce, Elwood Kaylor.

Tribute to The New Boys' Dormitory

"An architect's dream come true" . . .

The completed $425,000 modern dormitory is certainly a far cry from the rudimentary beginnings of last year. Providing the much-needed and up-to-date residence facilities for men, the structure was designed by John B. Hamme of York and contracted by John C. Yenter of Tyrone.

At the beginning of the Spring semester, 120 Juniata men moved into the red brick building, which includes a spacious lobby containing a 27-inch television set and a two-sided fireplace.

The individual rooms, too, are elaborately planned. Each is graced by built-in furniture, seven foot picture windows, and sound proof ceilings and finished in colorful hues with floors of plastic tile. Also included is a modern communication system, whereby a buzzer in each room is connected to the suite of the proctor, who is in charge of answering telephone calls.

This beautiful dormitory certainly gives the campus a more modern collegiate appearance, as Sherwood Lodge goes down in Juniata annals, and the first project of the 10-year building program is successfully brought to a close.

Acknowledgements

Letter From the Editor:

The Alfarata has tried to bring to the campus of Juniata College a yearbook that is new, different, and above all, one that will maintain the high standards set in previous years. I hope that we have succeeded.

I want to thank those who have spent many hours with me in seeing this dream come true: Betty and Mary K. who ironed out all the problems concerned with the scheduling of class pictures; Sylvia and Alice who worked so hard laying out the informal pages; Goose who handled all the sports material and did so very diligently; Carol who arranged for all club pictures to be taken; Joan without whom this Alfarata could not have survived; Les, Bill and Ray who so willingly took so many pictures for me . . . and George who so patiently and efficiently handled the financial problems of this 1955 Alfarata.

My sincere thanks also to all the people who did the little things, the things we could not have done without.

In addition to members of the staff, I would like to extend appreciation to:

Mr. James E. Frailey of Grit Publishing Company

Mr. Alex Spisak of Nittany Printing & Publishing Company

Mr. A. William Engel, Jr.

Dr. Harold C. Binkley

Mr. Henry Horton

Mr. Edward McKeehan

Mr. Lou Greene

Sincerely,
Sue Jamison
